

Liu Xiaoqing

Liu Xiaoqing is an Adjunct Professor at NUS RMI. He has obtained a PhD in Financial Engineering from NUS and another PhD in Applied Mathematics from Chinese Academy of Sciences. Before joining the industry, he had conducted research and teaching of computational methods for stochastic differential equations and quantitative finance with publications in reputed journals. As Managing Director and Head, Quantitative and Technological Modeling, Treasury and Market, DBS, he has sixteen years of trading floor experiences on derivatives of interest rates, equities, FX and credit risk.